It is an instinct for a child to play . The baby was born a few days ago who has not made herself familiar with anything of the world. That baby plays in her own accord . The baby grows up gradually and starts learn how to walk and run and in this way one day she reaches at the playground . Every young or old people has an unavoidable attraction to sports . We can get our everyday relief from fatigue and tiredness through games and sports . Games and sports can keep our body and mind healthy , strong and fresh .
